General News.

By section forty one of the national currency act national banks are required to pay to the Treasurer of the United States, in the month of July duty for the six months preceding July 1, as follows: On circulation, one half of one per cent., on deposits, one quarter of one per cent., and on capital, one quarter of one per cent on amount not invested in United States bonds. Blanks for this return and payment are now being furnished to the national banks.

It is stated that of the recently established or reopened postoffices in the Southern States there were few postmasters or postmistresses who could not take the oath.

The citizens of Weston, Mass., have decided to place large marble tablets in the walls of their public library in memory of the soldiers from the town whose lives were sacrificed in the late civil war.

An estimable colored lady was violently forced from a passenger car in Philadelphia on Tuesday. The conductor has been bound over to answer at court.

A passenger on the Third avenue cars on Tuesday night, in New York, while the car was crowded to excess, was robbed of a gold watch and chain by a thief who applied a handkerchief saturated with chloroform to his victim's nose.

In Cincinnati they seem likely to have two operas for a time. The advocates of the scheme of S. N. Pike and T. P. Handy each backed their own favorite, and the fear was that the struggle would overturn both crafts. In Monday's paper, however, Mr. Pike withdrew his proposition and Mr. Handy has the field. A call appears from the artist to the public to aid the latter in the establishment of a gallery and studio building, in connection with the Handy opera house.

The Internal Revenue receipts for the present fiscal year will be about three hundred and ten millions of dollars, from customs about one hundred and seventy millions, and from other sources over twenty millions, making the aggregate receipts for the fiscal year over five hundred millions.

P. T. Barnum has introduced a bill likely to be made a law by the Connecticut Legislature, virtually rescinding the statute fixing the legal rate of interest at six per cent., by leaving parties to make such written agreements as they deem proper in other words, that the use of money shall be allowed to obtain its own market price, and follow the natural laws of supply and demand. A trial like this has worked to a charm for two years in Rhode Island.

The School Board of Cincinnati have recently increased the salaries of all teachers in the public schools of that city 10 per cent.

John Minor Botts has accepted the invitation to deliver the oration before the City Government of Baltimore on the 4th of July.

Letter from "Occasional."

From the Philadelphia Press.

A little after two o'clock this afternoon Mr. Stevens put yet once more in an excellent voice and with all that calmness and vividness of manner which prove him to be the finest parliamentary leader of his time, to call attention to the fact that at half past three precisely he would demand the previous question on the report of the Joint Committee on Reconstruction as it had been adopted by the Senate. The certainty of the success of this closing and conclusive legislation seemed to have fully impressed the minority, and little opposition was made to the suggestion of the venerable statesman. The vote on the final passage of the joint resolution proposing this amendment to the Legislatures of the States is auspicious of more than union and harmony among the great party that sustained the army and the navy during the war and contributed so effectually to the overthrow of the rebellion. It is a sign of sure, speedy and lasting triumph. How could it be otherwise, when not a single Republican vote was thrown against it? The more than three fourths of the members who sustained the report, did so in direct defiance of the threats and in lofty contempt of the patronage of the National Government. All the millions and hundreds of millions at the command of the Executive have not secured one member of the House from his duty.

In the days of John Tyler his grand numbered six in the popular only—Andrew Johnson cannot count a single one! A shrewd observer suggests that this unanimity argues not some acquiescence on the part of the President but approval, but if this should be so, it would be so much the better for him and for the country. Yet the true philosophy is found in the resistlessness of the cause, in the necessities of the case itself and in the urgent demand of the people for such a reconstruction as will remedy all evils, and adjust all inequalities forever and forever. These people insist that it would be a crime almost surpassing the rebellion itself if after the overthrow of the rebellion, while the whole civilized world is tributary to the force of the principles that prevailed in the success of our arms, we, the custodians of the rescued rights and interests of the American people, should fall short of our duty and should begin to subordinate to self, not to sacrifice these rights and interests, instead of saving them against future hurtings. This is the secret of these unpalatable votes of Congress. Some curious incidents transpired almost simultaneous with the important action of the House.

In the morning a strong Union letter was addressed to Hon. William Pitt Fessenden signed by thirty two of the Democrats of Alexandria Virginia, including such well known and venerable citizens as Lewis McKenzie, Joshua Van Name and John Hawhurst—should he, have his opinion did report and expression, their special gratification that it will effectually debar the leaders of the rebellion of some eight and be a just and by no means excessive punishment—is deceiving the people. Holding office has been their occupation for many years past. I have before me a letter from one of the ablest men in Missouri just received in which he states that the election in that State in November will be an overwhelming Union triumph and adds "The only thing that we need to make our success sure is the passage by Congress of its plan of reconstruction." If Andrew Johnson takes ground against it there are thousands of conservatives in this State who will vote for the radicals. If he comes out in favor of it, the whole rebel and Copperhead gang will desert him.

Good news comes in rapidly from Maryland—There, almost on the threshold of the canvass the head of the Copperhead serpent is crushed. Every man turned out of office he comes not only a martyr to principle, but a leader of an indignant and determined host. It was interesting to observe now gladly, during the proceedings previous to the passage of the joint resolution in the House this afternoon, the radicals from Arkansas, Tennessee, North Carolina, Alabama Georgia and West Virginia, watched the call of the roll. They seemed to know that every affirmative vote was in fact a vote for their admission into Congress.

Thus much being done, and well done, we now go to the people upon the merits of the new or XIVth article of the Constitution of the United States, and God defend the right!

OCCASIONAL.

A new and frightful literal translation of the New Testament has just been printed, in which John the Baptist has been styled "John the Dipper." Another specimen is, "neither do men light a lamp and put it under a corn measure, but on a lamp stand, and it giveth light to all who are in the family." The new version, the Springfield Republican suggests, might suit the rustic minister, who, in a hot controversy against immersion, took for his text, "Be not carried away with divers."

While the boat was lying at Cincinnati, just ready to start for Louisville, a young man came on board, leading a blushing damsel by the hand, and, approaching the clerk, exclaimed, in a suppressed voice, "Say, we want my wife have just got married, and I'm looking for accommodations." "Looking for a berth," hastily inquired the clerk, passing tickets out to another passenger. "Birth? Thunder and lightning, no!" gasped the young man, "we don't but just got married! We want a place to stay all night, you know, and—a bed."

STEVENS' SPEECH.

The Constitutional Amendment.

The Senate amendments to the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States were taken from the Speaker's table for action by the House.

Mr. Stevens stated that the House portion of the Committee upon Reconstruction had examined the Senate amendments, and were unanimously of opinion that they should be concurred in, the amendments were so slight that unless gentlemen on the other side desired to discuss, the members on his side were willing to take the vote at once. If however, discussion were desired, he suggested that speeches should be limited to fifteen minutes, to be proposed to call the previous question at half past three o'clock.

Mr. Harding, of Kentucky, proposed that the Democratic side should have one hour allowed them for debate, to be divided among them as they choose.

Mr. Stevens agreed to that and it was understood that the Democratic hour was to be parcelled out between Messrs. Rogers, Harding of Kentucky, and Finck.

Mr. Rogers opened the debate.

He was followed on his own side of the question by Messrs. Fluck and Harding, of Kentucky, and on the Republican side by Messrs. Henderson and Spaulding.

The House then seconded the previous question, and

Mr. Stevens closed the debate. He congratulated the House and the country that the scheme was soon to be submitted to the people for the admission of an outlawed community to the privileges and advantages of civilized and free governments, a scheme, he said, containing much good as well as the omission of many better things.

In my youth, he continued in my manhood and in my old age, I have loudly dreamed that when any fortunate chance should have broken up for a time the foundations of our institutions and relieved us from obligations the most grievous that were ever imposed in the name of freedom the intelligent, free and justness of this Republic, true to their professions and their convictions, would have so remodelled all our institutions as to have freed them from every vestige of human oppression of inequality of rights of the recognized degradation of the poor and the superior caste of the rich—in short that no distinction would be tolerated in this purified republic but that which rose from merit and conduct.

This bright dream has vanished like the baseless fabric of a vision. I find that we shall be content with patching up the worst portion of the ancient edifice, and leaving it in many of its parts to be swept through by the tempests, the floods and the storms of despotism. Do you inquire why holding these views, and possessing some will of my own, I accept so imperfect a position? I answer because I live among men and not among angels, among men as intelligent as determined and as independent as any of those who not agreeing with me do not choose to yield their opinions to mine. Mutual concessions are their law, is our only resort or mutual hospitality. We might well have been justified in making renewed and more strenuous efforts for a better plan, could we have had the co-operation of the Executive. With his cordial assistance the rebel States might have been made model republics, and this nation an empire of universal freedom.

But he preferred restoration to reconstruction. He chose that the seven States should remain as nearly as possible in their present condition with such small modifications as he and his Prime Minister would suggest, without any impertinent interference from Congress. He anticipated the legislative action of the National Legislature and by mere usurpation erected governments in the conquered provinces, imposed upon them constitutions of the most arbitrary and unconstitutional character and now maintains them as legal state governments and insolently demands that they shall be represented in Congress on equal terms with loyal regular States.

To repeat this tyranny and at the same time to do some justice to conquered rebels, requires caution. The great danger is that the seceders may overwhelm the loyal men in Congress. The hesitated upon us in a mass disloyal and impetuous men than unfaithfully to embrace the representatives of the rebels, their allies to drag from the ranks of the Union the name of patronage, and from the offices of honor and profit famous for sixty days of treasons and for protected political premises which should no further delay.

Referring to the third section, Mr. Stevens said that he could not look upon the Senate amendment as an improvement. In his judgment it would grant the Government of the country both State and national and might give the next Congress and President to the reconstructed rebels. With their enlarged basis of representation, and the exclusion of loyal men of color from the ballot box, he saw no hope of safety unless in the prescription of proper conditions, which should do justice to the freedmen and enjoin enfranchisement as a condition precedent.

While he saw much good in the proposition he did not pretend to be satisfied with it. But still he was anxious for its speedy adoption for he dreaded delay. Let us, he said in conclusion, no longer delay, let us take what we can get now, and hope for better things in future legislation, in enabling acts and other provisions.

The House then proceeded to vote by yeas and nays on concurring in the amendments of the Senate.

Several announcements having been made of members absent or paired and as to how they would have voted.

Mr. Eldridge, in ridicule, announced that if Mr. Brooks of New York and Mr. Voorhees of Indiana had not been turned out of the House they would have voted "No," to which

Mr. Stevens added that if Jefferson Davis was here he would probably have voted the same way. [Laughter and applause.]

Mr. Wentworth added "So would Jake Thompson."

The Speaker directed his own name to be called and voted aye.

The vote was a strictly party vote and resulted yeas 120, nays 32.

The Speaker announced that over two thirds of both Houses having agreed to the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, the joint resolution was passed.

The Widow of Joe Smith, the Mormon.

From the Rochester Union.

A paragraph has been circulating for some time past and lately appeared in one or more of the city papers, which represented the widow of Joseph Smith, the founder of Mormonism, residing at Nauvoo, Illinois, "a stubborn fanatic, unreconstructed believer in the Mormon faith." We have testimony that we regard as wholly reliable to show that this statement does her gross injustice and at doubtless is a malicious invention. Mr. Thomas Calvert of this city, in the employ of the Hannibal and St. Joseph Railway Company, gives us a written report of a visit he made to Mrs. Smith—that was—in the 23d and 24th of February last. He states that she is married and possessed of large property. She keeps a good hotel at Nauvoo Landing, on the Mississippi. She is a kind, amiable lady, and is not a believer in Mormonism at all. She talks freely with all, and is the reverse of what the newspaper paragraphs make her. She has two sons with her, while Joseph, the eldest is absent. The hotel of Mrs. S. is the only good one in Nauvoo. She owns extensive vineyards, said to be valued at $1,000 per acre. She is enterprising and is respected by her neighbors.

Mr. C. feels that he can best repay the attention he received at the hands of Mrs. Smith by correcting the statement in circulation to her prejudice. He had occasion to walk a long distance in winter to reach Nauvoo and went to the hotel of Mrs. Smith with feet nearly frozen. She took a kindly interest in the traveler, and ministered to his necessities. It is very clear from the statement of Mr. Calvert that Mrs. Smith is an amiable woman.

Blondin Outdone—The Latest Sensation.

From the N. Y. Correspondence of the Hartford Times.

You may recall one De Lave, a tight rope performer, who a long time ago astonished the natives of Rochester by his feats above the Genesee Falls. He has just returned here from many years spent in South America and Mexico, and is going to give the public a new sensation. He proposes to cross the Falls of Niagara on a small wire, as "the American Eagle." To explain he is now having a large leathern cagle made here in the city, which is to be "stuck full" of feathers and otherwise manipulated so as to resemble a live one of monstrous proportions. This is to fit closely about his body, and on walking the wire he will balance himself by flapping the artificial wings. At the same time a rope is to be suspended by him below the wire, to which his son, a boy eight years old, will cling and go through with various athletic performances as the father advances across the falls. De Lave likewise proposes to walk on a wire over the falls, carrying both his wife and son on his back. This promises to be the great sensation of the season. De Lave has been performing at the City of Mexico, where he occasioned a considerable furore. He brings with him a medal received from the Emperor Maximilian.

One Charles S. Dunlap got himself into jail, the other day, at Zanesville, Ohio, for going through the country and poisoning the mouths of horses, then suddenly appearing as a horse doctor and offering to cure them for so much.

The morning papers contain the following special telegrams from Washington

A case of interest to bond holders was decided to day by First Comptroller R W Taylor of the Treasury Department, upon the following established facts

Mr Wenge bought ten one thousand dollar United States bonds with consecutive numbers Having no fire-proof safe he cut the coupons, as he asserts for additional security against burglary the four of the bonds were subsequently stolen from him, and all efforts to recover them proved fruitless He asked for a reissue of these bonds Mr Taylor decided that for the bonds and coupons returned entire, though separately the ones can be issued For those stolen, but not recovered, new bonds cannot be issued The law does not authorize the issue of new for lost or stolen bonds The holder can collect the interest coupons as they mature, but nothing more can be done

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

FINANCIAL.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

New York, June 15.

Post's money article says the loan market is rather less inactive but rates still favor the borrower Call loans to stock exchange brokers are 5@6 per cent, and 4 per cent on Governments. Commercial paper is rather stiffer and passes at 6½@9 per cent. The stock market exhibits a better tone Governments are firm. 10-40s have advanced under an active demand 7-30s are also attracting more attention. The principal changes are, however, in the 6s of 1867 and 1868, and in the 5s of 1870 and 1871 Railroad shares are rather more animated Rhode Island and Erie being the most active After the board New York Central closed at 96¾, Erie at 61, Reading at 91 00¾, Illinois Central at 91 21¾, Northwestern preferred at 80¾, Rock Island at 98¾, Fort Wayne at 97¼.

PETROLEUM MARKETS.

TITUSVILLE, June 15

The petroleum markets are firmer to-day than has been the case for some time Oil in New York rose to 20¼c

At the wells oil was sold in the morning for $3.50, and the producing market closed firm at our previous quotations.

If the producers hold their oil at the same figure, and oil continues firm at 26¼c. in New York the ideas of buyers and sellers will more nearly approximate each other than they have done since the late rise and reaction and a considerable number of sales may be effected, on the other hand, if the price is held at the same proportionate figure when compared with that in New York, which has lately been the case, the same stagnation of business will probably continue. Oil was sold yesterday on the creek for $3 25c, but the lots were so small that it can hardly be called a quotation

To-day very little oil could be sold for $3.50, and we heard of one sale at $3.75, the figure at which most of the producers hold their oil at present writing

The advance in gold has given rise to much speculation and the uncertainty as to whether a reaction may not take place, causes buyers to be very shy

The market may be said decidedly to have a tendency upwards, although not very active

We have been informed by a gentleman just arrived from Pittsburgh who is interested in the oil trade, that owing to the current report that 250 000 to 300 000 barrels of crude oil were stored in Pittsburgh he made particular inquiry as to the correctness of this report, and found that there are not more than 30 000 barrels stored there at present He also made inquiry with regard to that 80 000 barrels which were reported to have arrived there in two days during the last high water, and he found the amount to be but 6,000 barrels.

The receipts and shipments by wagon, pipes and railroad on Thursday were as follows

PITTSBURGH OIL MARKET.

[BY TELEGRAPH]

[Special to the Morning Herald]

PITTSBURGH June 15

Crude—During the morning this commodity was quiet The ruling extreme figures may be fairly given at 13@13½c. barrels returned and 18@18½c barrels included Good gravities of bulk will bring 13½ while barrel oil except in very few cases will not command over 18c The supply of crude on sale is comparatively large but so much in excess of the demand as to effect prices The market is easy at the quotations above mentioned the probabilities are that these would be the full and prices nominally unchanged Here there is but little inquiry and the rates offered are too low for a general acceptance by holders

Since our last the following sales were made 500 barrels Philadelphia delivery this month at 40c sellers option 500 barrels Philadelphia delivery in September at 45c, and 500 barrels Philadelphia delivery in October at 46c No movement in free oil

Petroleum Bank Case in Court—Arguments of Counsel and Decision of Justice—E. H. Chase, President, and J. R. Madison, Cashier, Bound over to Appear at the Next Quarter Sessions.

Pursuant to adjournment, the Petroleum Bank case came up for final argument on Thursday afternoon before Justice Mowbray. We have already presented the testimony to our readers. We are unable to do more than give an imperfect outline of the remarks of counsel. Clark Ewing, Esq., opened for the defence.

He said he had asked for a postponement on a former occasion, that he might separate the wheat from the chaff; the case had been greatly complicated and mystified by extraneous and superfluous matters. The motives of the prosecution were obvious. The creditors of the bank had sustained a loss, and thinking it could not be repaired, they were determined to punish the offenders. The evidence of such parties should be scrutinized with care. One of the defendants, Mr. Chase, was an old and honored citizen, and entitled from this consideration to the shield which a good name holds over an accused party. It was charged that the defendants had conspired to defraud the creditors of the bank. A conspiracy, as all the books showed, was most difficult of proof. The Justice must not be carried away by popular clamor and excitement, but divest himself of prejudice, and see if the evidence before him bore out the charge of conspiracy. It had been shown that Mr. Barnsdall bought the checks of depositors at a discount, but there was not a particle of proof that he had taken up his note with them at the bank.

To establish a conspiracy according to the definition of the term, it was necessary to show an agreement and concert of action between the defendants and Mr. Barnsdall as charged. It had been proved that the ten thousand dollars which Mr. Chase paid to Father Mignault was his own private funds, and the two thousand given to the poor was out of the pocket of Mrs. Madison.

As to the charge that a fraud was practiced by the sign and checks of the Petroleum Bank, reading Petroleum National Bank, he claimed that one institution was just as safe as the other, one was secured by United States bonds and the other by public stocks. Had not the First National Bank closed its doors at the same time and from the same cause? Mr. Poor takes out money from the bank after its suspension. It was a special deposit and Madison had taken it as an agent and not in the capacity of cashier. A bank was bound to redeem its checks with notes of its creditors. If drafts were paid by Culver, Penn & Co., in New York after the failure, that was a matter for which defendants could not be responsible. The transaction with Mr. Wheeler was after business hours on the 27th of March. The bank did not close till the 28th. It was customary for all banks to do business after the doors had closed for the accommodation of customers.

B. S. McAllister, Esq., counsel for the defendants, followed Mr. Ewing and said;

The Petroleum Bank was established in 1860. Its credit had been good, its deposits large, but it had gone down in a crisis which extended over all this country, and which was produced by one man, C. V. Culver. This man had enjoyed the personal and business confidence of the whole community and he had turned it to their ruin, not only in Titusville, but in Meadville, in Franklin and in Oil City. The Petroleum Bank felt aggrieved, but they had mistaken their remedy. No conspiracy had been formed.

Mr McA then examined the evidence in the charge of sending away money by express, the payment of Father Mignault, &c. He said neither of the two statutes relied upon in the case applied to it. The statute holding officers of a bank guilty of a misdemeanor for abstracting or embezzling funds applied solely to solvent banks.

The other statute prohibiting transfers and payments after insolvency declared such acts void, and he proceeded to argue that fraud could not be predicated upon a void act; the act being void, the relations and rights of the parties were restored to what they were originally. He was glad the investigation had occurred, for nothing dishonorable or illegal on the part of the defendants had been shown. He disclaimed any responsibility for the absence of Mr. Barnsdall or other witnesses. His clients had said nothing to him on that subject. Whatever the decision of the Justice might be no reflections would be cast upon him by any person.

While Mr. McAllister was dilating upon the connection and influence of Mr. Culver with this and other banks in this section, Justice Mowbray observed that he held the opinion that from the time the bank closed on the 27th, and the fact of the suspension of Culver, Penn & Co. had been communicated to Mr. Chase, it must be presumed that nothing could have occurred without his knowledge and privity, and that he, as the principal officer of the bank, must be presumed to have been conversant with all the transactions of Mr. Madison, &c. It was his right and duty, and the dictate of common prudence for Mr. Chase to assume the management and control of matters from the time he received the intelligence referred to.

Mr. J. H. Baker, counsel for the prosecution said: Our money matters had been conducted for years with the Petroleum Bank, and its customers have been poor men as well as capitalists. This bank had made a great deal of money out of this patronage. On the 26th of April a bank failed in New York greatly indebted to the Petroleum Bank—a great deal more than it ought to have been indebted. This steady drain of the funds of the Petroleum Bank had been going on with the knowledge and consent of the defendants. They knew how matters stood with Culver, Penn & Co. They had the books. We maintain here and everywhere that the executive officers of the bank are responsible; they were bound to observe the law and are liable to its penalties. When this bank failed, its creditors held back trustingly and patiently. They inferred from the character of the officers that a statement of its condition would be publicly made, and that the rights and interests of depositors protected. An impenetrable cloud of mystery still shrouds everything. Four and a half millions of dollars in the hands of Culver, Penn & Co., and all they can give an account of is one and a half millions.

There is scoundrelism somewhere. Since the failure of the Petroleum Bank over sixty-one thousand dollars have been taken out of it. I did not expect to find it criminal and intentional, but if the law puts it there, and the evidence puts it there, I cannot help it. This long suffering community finally became excited. They heard how this man and that man got his money from the bank, and they determined upon an investigation. They determined to know why a peculiar regard and preference was shown to one creditor or one class of creditors, with an utter indifference to the rights and claims of others. Several things have been done by this bank, which the law in justice to creditors forbids and punishes. The depositors after the failure, owned this bank, and these officers were only their trustees. When the bank failed, its officers by every principle of equity, by statute and common law, were bound to protect creditors equally. On the other hand, what did we see? A continued system of transferring assets and paying and preferring creditors. Is that criminal? They tell me of peculiar cases and claims. Yes, I have seen ten thousand men who needed all they got, and I have seen just as many who needed what was their own. The acts committed are criminal and are sufficient to put the defendants on their trial. We have proved enough. The future will develop more. We are on the outside of the circle; the defendants are on the inside of the circle.

The counsel for the defendants says certain acts being void there is no fraud. What is fraud? Fraud means an act without the right or the authority of law to the injury of others. The money in the bank, after insolvency, belongs to the depositors and creditors pro rata. An act of transferring assets or preference to creditors is in contravention of law and a fraud upon creditors. The giving up notes held by other banks and taking the checks of depositors therefore falls within this category. There was fraud in the case of Wheeler. There was fraud in the case of Mr. Allen, United States Collector. The United States might as well have suffered such a loss, or Mr. Allen's boudsmen, as other individual depositors. As to the cashier, he is subject to the directions of the President of the bank. It has been proved that Mr. Chase had knowledge of the conversion of bonds by Culver, Penn & Co., on the 27th, and that Mr. Chase went to the bank at five o'clock and removed his deposits. When nothing is left in the bank but a few reams of paper and some Oil City bills, what is left to depositors but to punish those who have committed unlawful and inequitable acts. The acts may be null and void, but the intent none the less fraudulent, and the injury irreparable. The withholding a statement from the public, and the secret and clandestine manner of all these transfers and payments have created this public suspicion and dissatisfaction in the community. Fraud is a matter of inference as well as fact.

To be sure this prosecutor and the large class he represents could pocket their loss and let the defendants go, but it is too much charity and forbearance to expect of human nature, even in a christian community.

Justice Mowbray then delivered the following decision:

Before giving my decision in regard to this investigation, I wish to state why I have in some slight degree varied from what I am informed has been the usual course practiced in respect to criminal complaints before a Justice of the Peace in this State.

Where a citizen, who up to the time of any criminal complaint being preferred against him, has sustained a high general character for integrity and honor, it seems to me there arises a deep responsibility and solemn accountability in the duty of a Justice of the Peace in an inquiry of this kind. For although this is merely a preliminary proceeding to ascertain whether there are sufficient grounds for sending a defendant to trial before a jury, and until that jury has pronounced them guilty they are deemed innocent, yet the simple fact of binding over to appear, or demanding bail for appearance, may, and does in some degree, it cannot be denied, constitute a degree of taint of character; taint though it may be according to the nature of the charge, and therefore, I have admitted counsel to explain and witnesses to prove the groundlessness of the charge preferred and entire innocence of the defendants.

In this community I am satisfied a full investigation is as much for the benefit of the parties charged as for the depositors; unless proceeded with, there will always remain a cloud under which the most extravagant rumors will be circulated, unjust conclusions arrived at, all these another court will set at rest.

This inquiry is similar to that held before a Grand Jury and no person has a right, I say right emphatically, to interfere, nor is this room for this purpose an open Court, and there is doubt whether parties have the right to be heard by counsel in a preliminary proceeding of this kind. The great value, however, of the arguments of the counsel is assisting me to do justice, and enabling me to be informed on what does, and what does not constitute an offence, is my justification for the course I have allowed to be pursued in the inquiry.

What then are the circumstances under which I am called upon to act?

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania having surrounded the business of banking with certain penalties in case of negligence to observe certain precautions against loss, by the officers of a bank, and declared certain acts in view of insolvency being contemplated, that is, probable, to be null and void, a creditor of the Petroleum Bank complains:

That when and after the reopening of the Petroleum Bank had been decided upon in the negative, by the President, because of the failure of Culver, Penn & Co., in New York, who were heavy debtors to the bank, certain securities and moneys were handed over to particular creditors, which securities ought to have been divided pro rata among all the creditors; and it is claimed these acts will be decided in another court to have been null and void; that those who performed them have committed a misdemeanor and rendered themselves liable to penalties provided in such cases.

In support of this charge evidence has been produced, proving:

1. That despatches per telegraph of the failure of Culver, Penn & Co., reached the bank here between 3 and 5 p. m., Tuesday, the 27th of March.

2. That on the evening of that day the President stated to a depositor (Esmond) the above fact, that Culver Penn & Co. were heavy debtors to the bank, and that the bank would not reopen the following morning.

3. That the Cashier permitted a certain depositor (Mr. Wheeler,) to remove certain securities on the evening of the 27th, that these securities were exchanged for others on the 28th and for cash, and that an intimation by telegraph received by Mr. Allen that a draft for $16,045 was not honored by Culver, Penn & Co., it was covered by handing over Currency and other securities.

4. Another small depositor (Mrs. Mayner) was paid her deposit by an officer of the bank.

5. The use of the word "National," in certificates, and in a promissory note, was proved, and a depositor (Reeve) states that he was deceived by it. But it was afterwards shown that his certificate of deposit had the word National erased.

Now up to the 27th March, the officers of the bank were the employes of the stockholders engaged for the purpose of making a profit on their capital invested; after the bank suspended, they should have regarded themselves as trustees of depositors and stockholders, until succeeded by a Receiver. Their duty then was, to draw in every dollar of assets that might become liable to attachment in other States, New York for instance; instead of directing particular creditors to those points to secure themselves. This seems to me to have been negligence, and whether criminal or otherwise I have not to determine. I pass to the 27th; if Mr. Chase, the President was not previously active in his duties of supervision, it is incredible that any subsequent transaction was not fully known to him, and received his sanction. This determines in my mind his being a party to the acts of the Cashier since the suspension—such are the facts.

The losses to this community have been very heavy by the failures of this bank, induced by the stupendous and criminal acts of C. V. Culver; notwithstanding the notoriously great profits made, stockholders and depositors are both losers. No statement has been made during the ten weeks that have elapsed since the bank closed, and notwithstanding the conflict of the old banking laws and those of 1860 under which this bank was established, I am forced to the conclusion that sufficient grounds have been proved in the evidence before me, whilst the arguments of counsel on the law of the case also show, that a decision as to the legal liability of the defendants should be had, and I therefore hold E. H. Chase bound in his own recognizances and J. R. Madison in two recognizances of $1,000 each to appear at the next Quarter Sessions of the Peace for the County of Crawford then and there to answer, &c., &c. &c.

Proceedings in Common Council.

A regular meeting of the Common Council was held Thursday evening, June 14th.

Present—Messrs. Bloss, Clatar, McCrum, Coburn, Bunting, Ostrum, Goodwin.

Absent—Mr. Fletcher.

The following bills were ordered paid: Chief of Police Witherop, $90, John Dougherty, James Pastorious, Joseph Leslie, M. R. Rouse, each $80; John Golding, $53.33. O. Lindley, $1.38 for oil; John Kellogg, Hiram Hill, each $42. Peter Wilson, do., $43.50. F. H. Eddy & Co., bill sundries, $88.80. Referred to Committee on Fire Department.

On motion, an order was drawn for $150 in favor of Street Commissioner.

On motion of Mr. Bunting, Chief Engineer Winsor was added to Committee on Celebration.

On motion of Mr. Bloss, the Fire Department Committee were authorized to rent suitable building for use of Citizen Engine Company and apparatus.

On motion, the Street Commissioner was directed to remove the barn obstructing Washington street.

Mr. Bloss offered the following, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Committee on Public Improvements be authorized to ascertain and report to this Board what suitable grounds can be obtained for a City Park and a Cemetery, and upon what terms the same can be purchased for the use of the city.

Mr. Coburn presented ordinances in regard to lewd behavior, imprisonment, and to prevent the firing of guns and pyrotechnics, which were adopted.

CULVER'S CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS.—It is not generally known that S. Newton Pettis is C. V. Culver's candidate for Congress. But for the persuasions of Pettis, Culver would have long ago resigned his seat. The Governor refused to appoint Pettis to the vacancy, and hence Culver, through Pettis' exhortations, was induced to retain the position. The 20th district is practically unrepresented, for Culver has not spent a single week in Washington during the present session. It remains to be seen whether the Culver influence is strong enough to perpetuate itself in the guise of the "Rock Island" patriot. Such a "draft" upon the intelligence of Crawford county will certainly be "dishonored."

THE STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—Corinthian Hall presented an animated appearance last evening on the occasion of the Strawberry Festival given by the ladies of the M. E. Church. The late hour at which we write precludes an extended notice of the affair. The hall was very tastefully decorated with evergreens, paintings and flags, and the tables were profusely laden with everything that could gratify the palate and delight the eye. There was an immense throng of visitors, and the entertainment seemed all that could be desired. The Union Band executed their own share of the programme very acceptably, and we are requested to express the thanks of the society for their services, which were gratuitously rendered. Of the pecuniary results of the festival we are not informed. The receipts must have fully equaled the general expectation.

P. S.—The receipts were nearly $100.

"STONEHOUSE JACK."—The Buffalo Express says this individual, who emerged from temporary retirement recently in the character of a Fenian Patriot, and was one of the immortal scow load of O'Neill's army captured by the steamer Michigan, is claimed by an officer from Franklin, Pennsylvania, on a requisition from the Governor of Pennsylvania. He is charged with having committed a murder with robbery, at Pithole, on the 3d of May last, and a lively prospect of the gallows seems to open before Mr. Jack. The mourners will not go very numerously about the street should that tragical event occur.

A CURIOSITY.—We saw at Haight, Archer & Co.'s yesterday a fifteen gallon glass bottle filled with mixed pickles. The putting up process involved a very artistic performance. The pickles include almost every variety of vegetable, cut into fanciful shapes, and so arranged upon the interior as to produce the most ingenious combinations and effects. There are two inscriptions in the same style, viz: Presented to Haight, Archer & Co., of Titusville, "From Archer & Bro., New York." Altogether it is a novelty which will repay inspection.

ARREST OF CULVER, PENN & CO.—Yesterday morning Messrs. C. V. Culver, L. H. Culver and John R. Penn, comprising the firm of Culver, Penn & Co., were arrested at Franklin, by the Chief of Police from Harrisburg, upon a charge of embezzlement and fraud. The warrant was issued at the instance of the Petroleum Bank of Titusville. At last accounts they had not succeeded in obtaining the requisite bail. The warrant was issued by the Mayor of Harrisburg.

OIL CREEK RAILROAD EXTENSION.—The O. C. R. R. Co. have at last established a rail communication with Petroleum Centre. A construction train went down yesterday morning with rails, to complete the track to the station at that point, which it was expected would be accomplished before night. In a few days, as soon as the necessary switches, turn-tables, &c., are in working order, passenger trains will be run to the end of the route.

PARLEZ-VOUS FRANCAIS.—In a trespass case before Justice Mowbray on Thursday a Frenchman was called to the stand for examination. He could only shrug his shoulders and shake his head when questions were put to him by counsel and they threw down their pens in despair at the strange jargon of "Monsieur." The embarrassment of all parties was suddenly relieved by the Justice, who proceeded to interrogate the foreigner in his vernacular tongue and interpret his answers with a fluency that astonished the "natives."

A WASTE OF AMMUNITION.—Mr. Pettis continues to circulate his campaign documents free of charge through the United States mail. Every postoffice in the county makes a gratuitous distribution of his ballots, circulars and newspapers. We are requested by sundry individuals who have received this sort of compliment, to inform the Judge that it is a great waste of ammunition.

NEW ENGLISH HOUSE.—By a resolution of the Council on Thursday evening, the Fire Department Committee were authorized to rent a suitable building for Citizen Engine Company No. 2. The crowded condition of the present engine house, which now contains all the apparatus of the Fire Department, render this step indispensable. A seperation of the companies will also be desirable for various other reasons.

THE Republican says that the Crawford County Central Agricultural Society has effected a lease of the use of the grounds of the Meadville Driving Park Association for Fair purposes, for a term of nineteen years, and will sell the present grounds of the Society, and invest the proceeds, except so much as may be necessary for buildings, in Government securities.

REMEMBER GOV. CURTIN.—Voters should bear in mind that every ballot cast in favor of the nomination of Mr. Pettis for Congress, is calculated to defeat Pennsylvania's noble patriot and spotless statesman, Gov. Andrew G. Curtin, as the successor of Edgar Cowanin the United States Senate.

PERSONAL.—Hon. G. C. Munger of Rochester, was stopping at the Crittenden House yesterday; he left this morning for home.

C. D. Tracy, Esq., of the Rochester Express is stopping at Petroleum Centre.

HEAVY DEPLETION.—A laboring man who was footing it from Pinmer to Pithole, was stopped by two men who demanded his money. The traveler disgorged his pile, which amounted to twenty-five cents in torn scrip.

ST. JAMES MEMORIAL CHURCH.—The third discourse on the Scriptures will be preached by the Rector in the above church on Sunday evening next, June 17th. Subject: The Translation of the Scriptures into English.

Loveme of strawberries, fresh fruits, &c., will always find a constant supply at Hall's, adjoining First National Bank. Mr. H. receives supplies daily per express of all the luxuries of the season, and sells at prices to suit the times.

The Use of Torpedoes in Oil Wells.

Our attention has been called to a series of experiments that have been made in the wells of various localities by Col. Roberts, with his newly patented Torpedo. The results have in many cases been astonishing. The torpedo which is an iron case, containing an amount of powder, varying from fifteen to twenty pounds, is lowered into the well, down to the spot, as near as can be ascertained, where it is necessary to explode it. It is then exploded by means of a cap on the torpedo, connected with the top of the well by a wire. The object of the torpedo is to clear out all the deposits at the bottom of the well, such as gravel, pieces of seed-bag, &c., as well as to open the fissures, where the oil comes through. These frequently become perfectly clogged with paraffine, and other matter, that effectually prevents the production of oil from the well. It is claimed that the explosion of the torpedo at so great a depth, cannot result in any serious damage to the well.

A large number of wells have been experimented on, and the most signal success has attended the same. Several wells on the Turr farm, on Oil Creek, have proved the most productive as yet. One of these was increased in production by the use of the torpedo, from ten to over one hundred barrels per day.

Paraffine, one of the parts of petroleum, has a tendency to form in bottoms of oil wells, more especially after they have been worked a short time. We have known numerous instances where the conducting pipes have become so clogged with it as to render working the well impossible, until the pipes were taken up and cleaned out. We have seen the paraffine taken from these the full size of a two and a half inch pipe, of about the same consistency as lard. It is but reasonable to suppose that this substance accumulates at the bottom of the well or in oil fissures, and in a short time effectually stops them up. Production thus ceases, and the well is abandoned. By keeping these fissures rid of this impediment, it is hard to tell the vast amount of oil that could be brought to the surface, that is now lost.

We desire to call attention to the startling facts that appear in the testimonials published in our advertising columns by the Roberts Petroleum Torpedo Company. The reliable source whence these certificates come seems to preclude the possibility that this torpedo is a high-blown humbug, besides, it would seem to be the most consummate folly to publish statements whose falsity could be so readily exposed, as would be the case with these if they were untrue; and yet it is only the involuntary promptings of human nature, on hearing such remarkable assertions, to ask "really, are these things so?"

If every unsuccessful well owner shall find an affirmative answer to this question, we know somebody who will make a good thing. And if we are correctly informed, the Colonel is deserving of the most perfect success; for notwithstanding the disheartening advice of some and the scoffs of others, notwithstanding the groundless claims of rival contestants, backed by money and talent and brazen impudence, he has carried his invention gloriously through upon its own merits, as is fully shown by the late decision of the Commissioner of Patents.

If the torpedo shall do one-tenth as much for other territory as it seems to have done for the Turr Farm, it will prove to be more substantial benefit to the oil regions than all other patent implements and machines that have ever been invented.

It is worthy the attention not only of all who are directly interested in the production of petroleum, but of all who desire the prosperity of this oil country to inquire into the matter.

THE Titusville Union Cornet Band is the band that can discourse sweet music, as every one present at the Festival last evening will testify. They certainly did themselves great credit, and received the highest praise from the very large crowd present. Such a band is a credit to our young city, and we are proud to be able to call it our band. It is made up of the very best musical talent, and is worthy of the patronage of our citizens on all public and private occasions where good music is desired. We should do all in our power to support this first class band in our midst, and we cheerfully recommend it to the public at large. "Long may she wave."

Martha Washington Hair Restorer.

"That which revives, renovates and blesses—
'Tis not a potion that will soil your tresses,
'Tis not a dye that sometime will mimpart
The wavy lustre of your glossy hair,
Selected not from nature's grand creation
A simple vegetable preparation,
Where nature and where chemistry combine
To make it what it is—almost divine,
A wondrous panacea, which in truth
Restores the fading locks of your youth
And makes you feel, though sorrows round you stand
And age above you waves his silver wand,
One consolation with your life is won.—
That consolation lies in "MARTHA WASHINGTON".

TARR FARM, June 12, 1866.

Col. E. A. L. ROBERTS—Dear Sir: Yours of the 11th instant, asking for information as to the results from the explosion of the Roberts' Torpedo in various wells on this farm, is at hand, and we take great pleasure in stating the following statement, based upon our own and other reliable information obtained from various parties owning interests in the wells mentioned below.

First. The Tarr Homestead Company have had Torpedoes exploded in the Decline and Kingsbury wells. Of these two wells one had been flowing and the other pumping nearly 120 barrels, taken together, but they had decreased until both were yielding but about 8 barrels per day. After the explosion of the Torpedo, both commenced to flow and produced about 160 barrels per day, at which rate they still continue.

Second. Keystone well. This well pumped at its highest point about 40 barrels per day, decreased to about 3 barrels, but after the explosion of the Torpedo it commenced to flow, and is now flowing from 180 to 200 barrels per day.

Third. The Burnett well. Had pumped as high as 80 barrels, and had decreased to 10 barrels. The Torpedo increased it to flowing 65 barrels.

Fourth. The Sherman Homestead at best pumped about 20 barrels, had decreased until the Torpedo was put in, and is now pumping 40 barrels, with every indication that it will soon flow, as it is increasing both in gas and oil.

Three other wells in the same neighborhood have been brought up from pumping, in the aggregate about 15 barrels, to producing over 100 barrels per day, and increasing. One of them is now flowing and the other two are pumping. They will, to all appearances, reach a much higher point.

We believe there has not been a single exception on this farm where your Torpedo has not greatly benefited the wells operated upon. All have been marked successes. Mr. Burnett states that in his well the entire expense was repaid in two days, and he believes all that have tried them have equally favorable opinions.

The increase, as nearly as we can learn in the eight wells mentioned above, taken together, is fully 300 per cent. over the highest point these wells ever reached before the use of the Torpedo, and 160 per cent. over their product at the time the Torpedo was exploded in them, being 60 barrels total before the explosion and 156 after. Such results cannot fail to be satisfactory in the highest degree. Yours, respectfully,

BARROWS, KERR & CO.

BLOOD FARM, January 29 1866

We, whose names are hereto annexed, do certify that we are acquainted with the well located on the Blood Farm, and known as the "Dale House No. 2"—now called the "Woodin Well"—and that the said well had been down about five months and had been thoroughly tested in all practicable ways without obtaining any oil. As a last resort, the owners of the well applied to Col. Roberts, Superintendent of the Roberts' Petroleum Torpedo Company, to operate on the well. The explosion of two Torpedoes in the third and rock resulted in the production of a daily yield of from sixty to eighty barrels of oil. In view of these facts, we confidently recommend a trial of the Roberts' Torpedo to all well owners whose wells are either dry holes or have ceased to produce. We consider the invention to be one of great practical value, as evidenced by the conversion of this well from one of no value whatever to one worth many thousand dollars. (Signed)

JOHN BLACK, Well Contractor.

HENRY BYRON, Superintendent Home Pet. Co.

ALL THE OIL—NO ROYALTY.

GREAT INDUCEMENTS TO PARTIES WHO WANT TO BORE FOR OIL!

The undersigned has inaugurated a new system in the oil regions of Pennsylvania. He offers the following inducements, so that almost any person who has industry and perseverance, can go on the land and bore for a flowing oil well.
